

FROM THE DOLOMITES THROUGH THE VENETO TO VENICE

 Self-guide tour

 Racing bike

 495-575 km

●●○ Medium

Duration: 8 days / 7 nights

DESCRIPTION

From the north east of the Dolomites, you cycle over well-known famous mountain passes. Lake Misurina, the Drei Zinnen (Three Peaks) and the Olympic town of Cortina d'Ampezzo are only some of the highlights you will see along the way. But the highlight will attend you at the end of your holiday: Venice and its lagoon, were added to the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites in 1987. The tour takes you on to Bassano del Grappa where the land starts to level out. From here you slowly cycle downwards into the valley. After a short detour to Asolo, the town of a hundred horizons, you will cycle along the wine road from Valdobbiadene to Vittorio Veneto. The fashionable town of Treviso waits upon your arrival to greet you. Following the path along the river Sile, you cycle on towards the final destination of the bike tour through Northern Italy until you reach Venice. It's a sporty-racing bike tour for cyclists with a good physical preparation. The passes of the Dolomites ask for preparation, because there are a few longer ascents to climb (most aside of the big travelled streets – except during high season July-August). The second half of the week is going to be easier; you reach the flatter landscape of Venice.

DETAILED ROUTES

-  Day 1: Hochpustertal (Niederdorf/Villabassa or Toblach/Dobbiaco)
Individual arrival at the hotel in Hochpustertal. Free, unguarded public car park near the hotel.
-  Day 2: Hochpustertal – Cortina d’Ampezzo
(approx. 80 km, ascent approx. 1.650 m difference in altitude or approx. 90 km, ascent ca. 1.250 m difference in altitude)
The tour takes you from Villabassa/Dobbiaco to the Sexten valley, a side valley of the Pustertal valley in the heart of the Dolomites. The route continues over the Kreuzberg Pass and into the province of Belluno (to Padola to be exact) before going over two more Dolomites passes (Passo San Antonio and Passo Tre Croci) en route to the former Olympic town of Cortina d’Ampezzo. There is the possibility to choose a longer route and cycle over Calalzo di Cadore.
-  Day 3: Cortina d’Ampezzo – Belluno
(approx. 95 km, ascent approx. 1.600 m difference in altitude)
You leave Cortina d’Ampezzo, with the summits of the Tofane on your left and the Five Towers – “Cinque Torri” on your right and cycle towards the famous Passo Giau. The Dolomites accompany you first to Selva di Cadore and then to Belluno. The famous Dolomites passes interchange with the unique mountain views on this part of the trip.
-  Day 4: Belluno – Feltre
(approx. 105 km, ascent approx. 1.300 m difference in altitude)
Your tour takes you from the stronghold of the ice cream makers to the famous Italian Prosecco (sparkling wine) area of Valdobbiadene before reaching Feltre. Before approaching the plains, you’ve got one more pass to conquer (Passo San Boldo).
-  Day 5: Feltre – Bassano del Grappa
(approx. 65 km, ascent approx. 1.500 m difference in altitude)
Before you finally reach the plains, you still have the Monte Grappa to cross. During WW 1, this was one of the many battle areas between Austria/Hungary and Italy.
-  Day 6:
(approx. 110 km, ascent approx. 600 m difference in altitude)
After leaving the alpine region, a choice of villas designed by the renowned architect Palladio, intermittently come into view. A stop is possible in the idyllic town of Asolo before cycling on to Valdobbiadene from where we follow the “vine road” to Vittorio Veneto and Conegliano. Finally, we reach Treviso, the town of the pond skaters. There are many worthwhile sights to view in the town, such as the arcades, famous buildings and the shops are worth browsing around. Treviso hosts the head office of the international company Benetton as well as many shoe factories
-  Day 7: Treviso – Venice Mainland/Mestre
(approx. 110 km, ascent 0 m or approx. 40 km, ascent approx. 100 m difference in altitude)
Following the path along the River Sile towards the “Serenissima”, you cycle to the final destination of your bike tour until you reach Venice.
-  Day 8: Venice Mainland/Mestre
Individual departure from Venice mainland/Mestre or extension of your stay.
