DESCRIPTION

The Dobbiasco-Cortina Folk Race is one of the most traditional races in Italy and has been taking place since 1977. After the Marcialonga, it is the second largest cross-country race in Italy. Internationally, the course from Cortina to Dobbiaco has become famous due to the repeated staging of the Tour de Ski since 2010. The traditional 42 km Classic route runs along the former railway line of the Dolomite Railway, which was built during the First World War and abandoned in 1962. The route of the former railway line has become a popular venue for sporting events, also thanks to the constant gradients and the many architectural and natural beauties: Forests, lakes, bridges, tunnels and old stations, surrounded by the fascinating Dolomite peaks.
